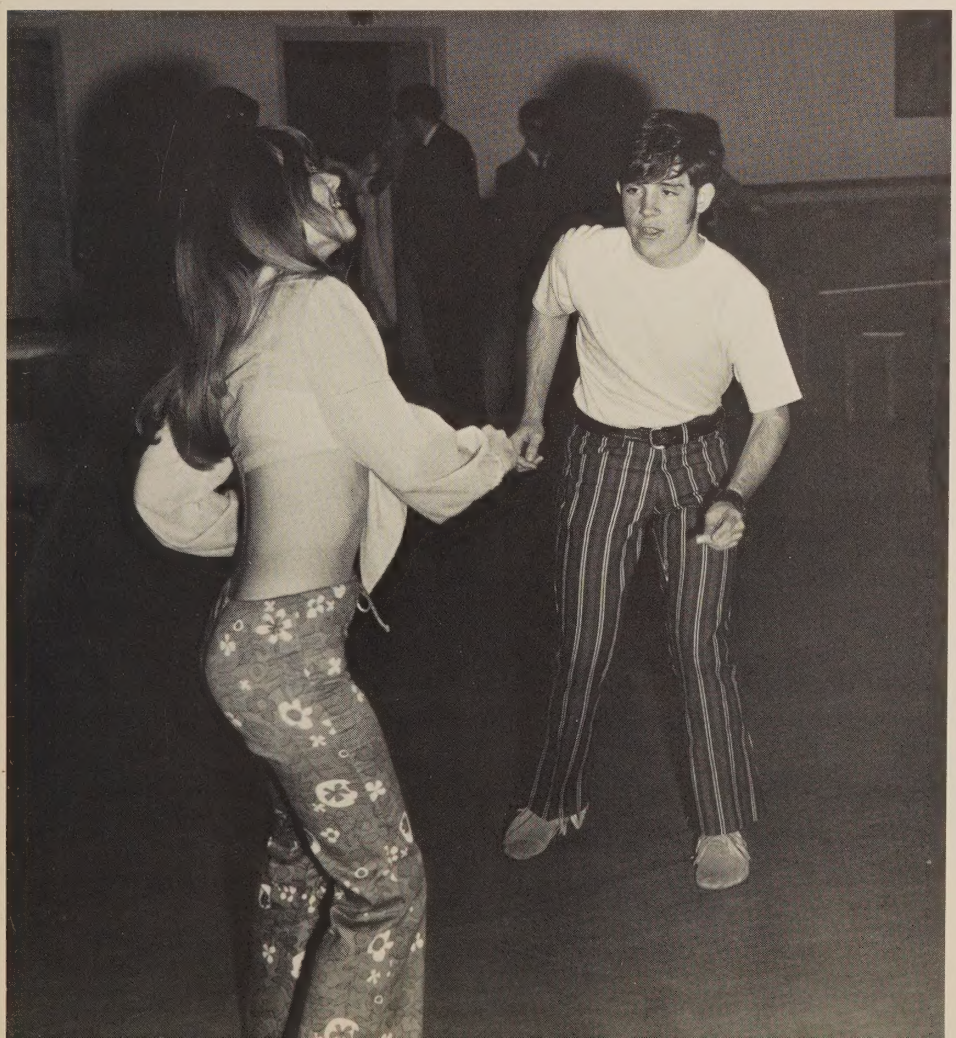
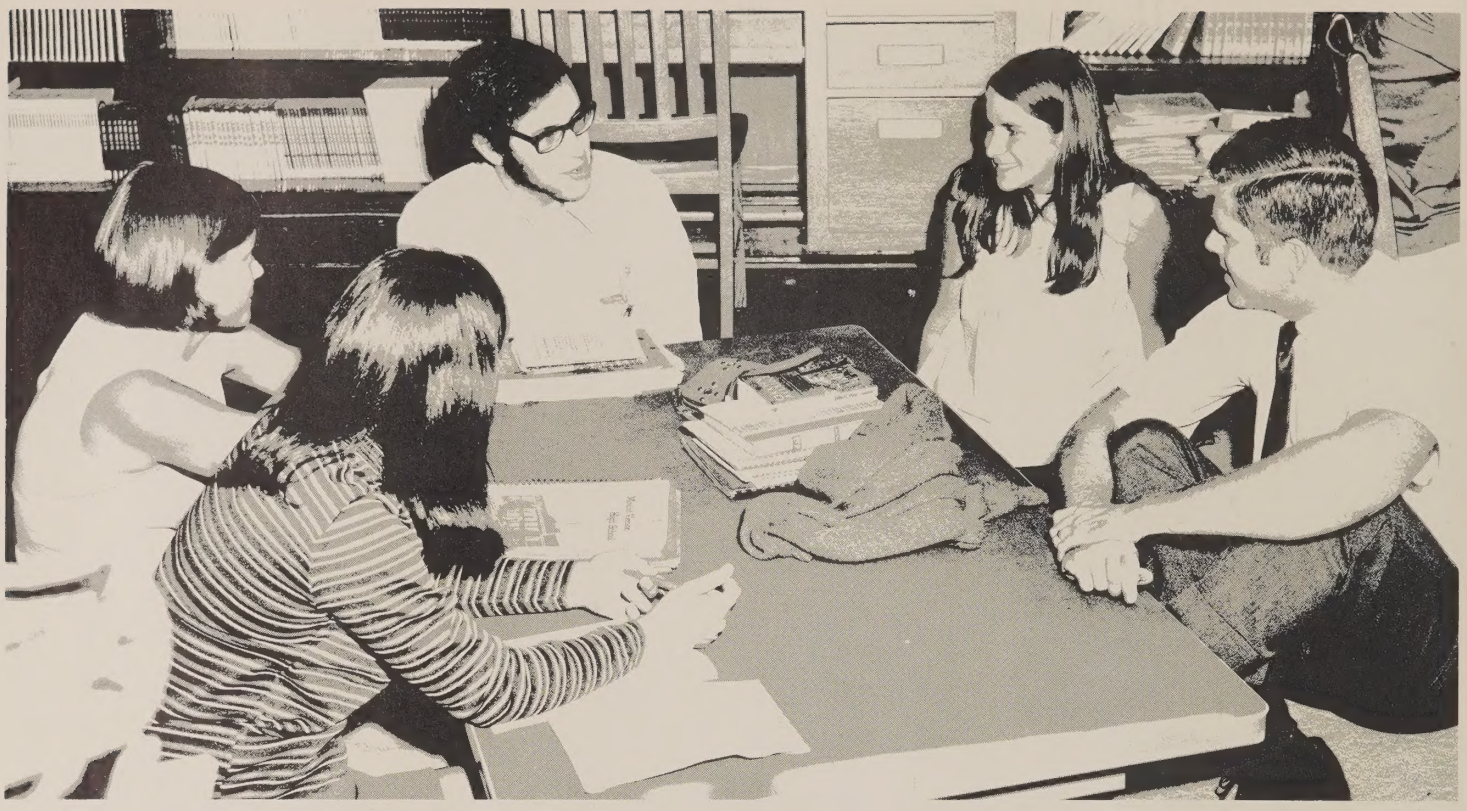
Volume XXXI

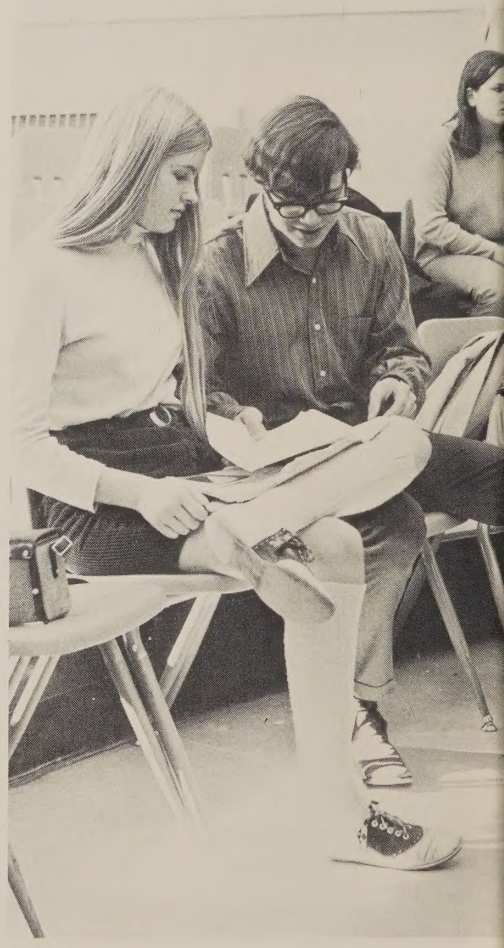
Mount Vernon High School
Alexandria, Virginia

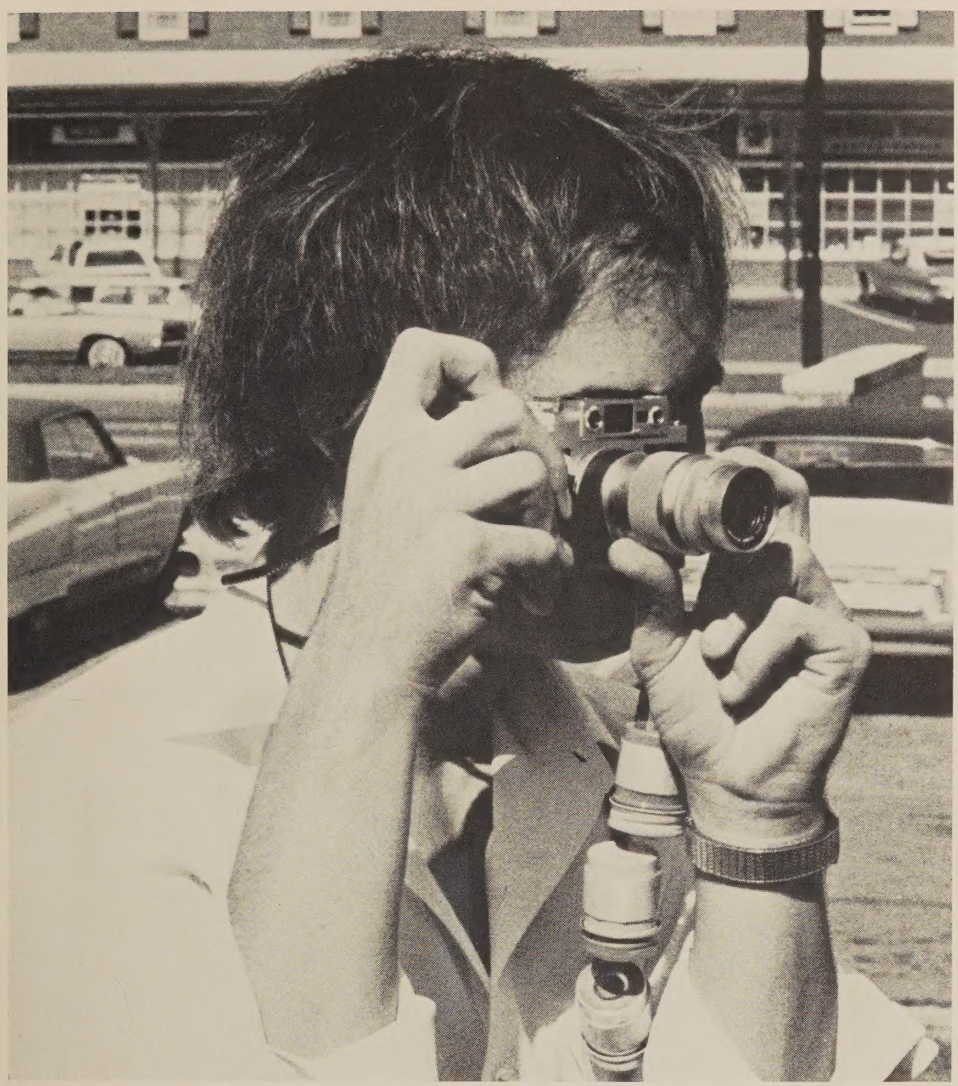
It's A Personal Thing

I am the summation of my environment. I find myself in whatever I do. Who am I? I am the understanding friend, the pretender, the questioner, the sportsman, the lover, the learner, the teacher . . . I am many things, but most of all I am an individual, a personality.



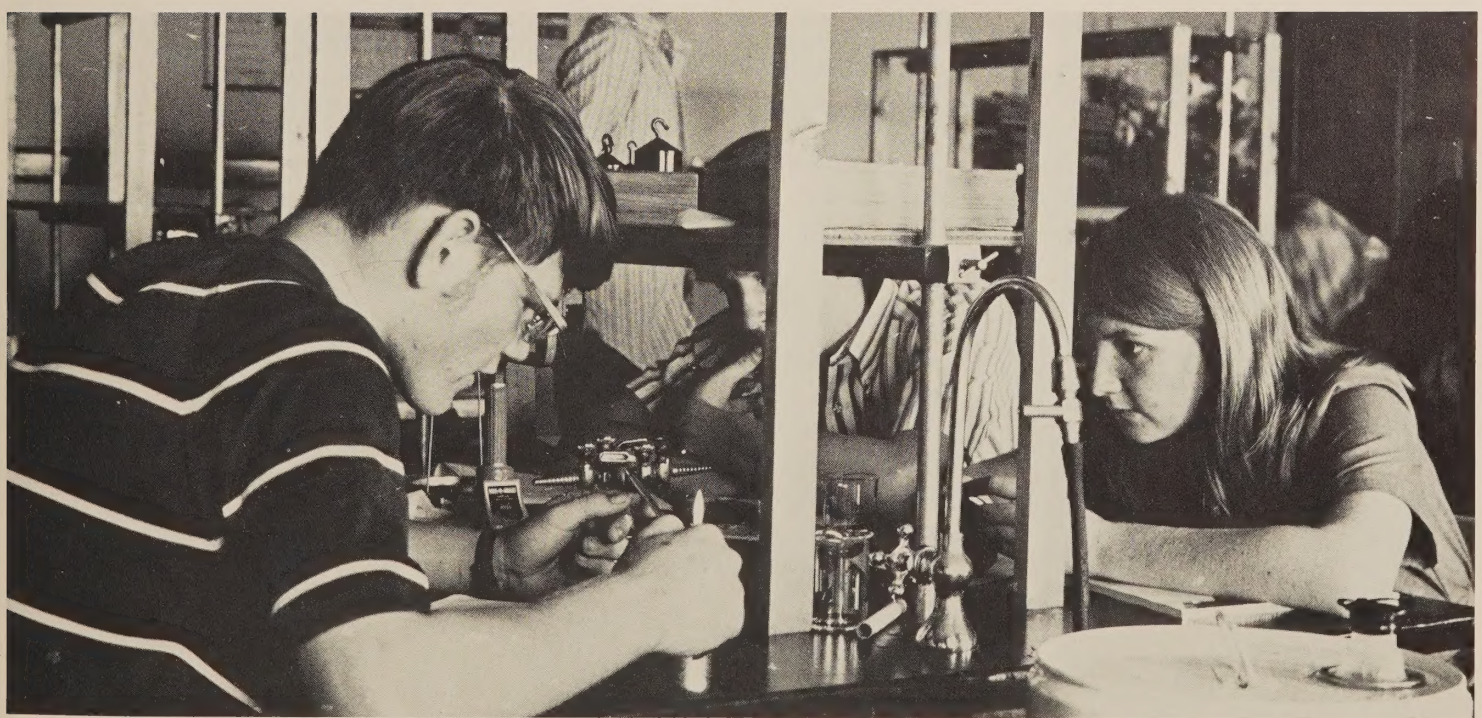






Search: Outside Contact

Continually seeking out, grasping, discarding, and rearranging, I endeavor to establish a personal identity. Groping for the truths that each individual is somehow convinced that he can find, I unceasingly question and evaluate. I seek solutions, sure that with the light will come a joy of understanding. What I am after is knowledge, experience, happiness . . . in essence, life itself.



Experience: Individual Progress

Through living I learn, and through learning I live. I find new vistas everywhere I turn. My outlooks are constantly changing because I myself am changing. By existing in this world of complexities I find a continual need for readjustment. Yet, remaining constant through this transient pattern is the knowledge that by my experiences I am creating something, and that something is an individual — myself.

Ultimate Goal: Personal Fulfillment

Because I seek many vague "somethings", which I define only as "answers", I am able to find a truth relative only to myself. As a result of my awakening, I discover new horizons, and an endless pattern of myself is set before my eyes. I realize that because I have analyzed and concluded, I have fulfilled an integral part of my ideal for meaningful existence. But I must not stop here or close my mind. I must continue to watch, to listen, and to live.

School Life

I live. Yet it is not only within myself, but without as well. I am impressed with the dynamic, touched by the poignant, and often shun the arduous; I cherish the tender; I envy the intellectual; I emulate brilliance; I laugh at myself; I socialize with others; I withdraw within my consciousness to meditate. Awareness of my world is one key with which I unlock the mysteries of existence.

Students Come Alive With The Feeling Of Spring

SPRING ACTIVITIES

School is drawing to a close; final examinations and graduation loom ahead. Still students find time among these solemn activities to enjoy the lighter ones the spring months also bring. Leading the parade of events, the annual beauty contest really draws students into the mood for spring. Crowned as the 1970-71 Miss Mount Vernon was Sue Roscher. Runners-up were Anne Mason, Cindy Lawson, Denise Douvlos, and Marty Weaver.

Following tradition, seniors take over the school for a day. This is one of the last events they participate in as high school students. This inflicts upon us that we can only stand silently by as the year slips away — knowing it is impossible to retrieve all the lost moments.

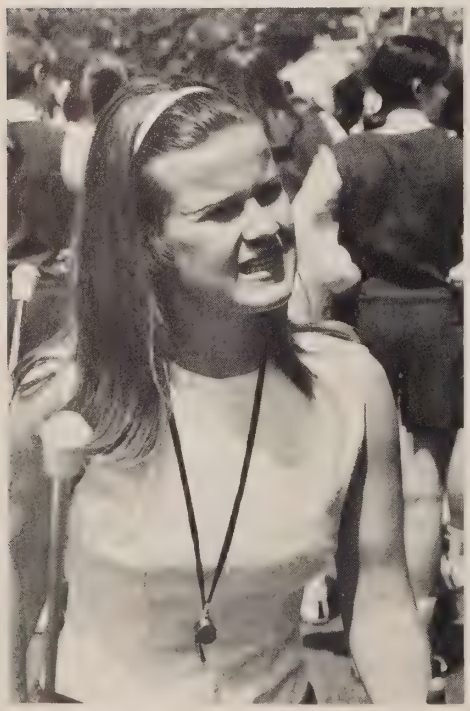
The boys get a taste of cheerleading in the pep rally for the Powderpuff Football Game. One feels proud upon receiving their diploma, an enigma of success and the completion of high school. Outstanding athletes receive awards for their spectacular performance. Uncomfortable bus seats suddenly become a grateful resting place for Winchester participants. Being teacher for a day gives Seniors a look at what it's like to cope with uncooperative students.

Winchester, Apple Blossoms, And Memories

WINCHESTER PARADE

Flashing instruments, blaring whistles, twirling batons, and tired blistered feet — all are a part of the annual Winchester Parade. Endless hours of practicing routines and redoing them until flawless go into the preparation of the event. After five miles of precision marching, the weary marchers collapse from exhaustion, but a happy exhaustion!

Solemn faced, the Color Guard marches down Winchester's main street. Last minute instructions and words of encouragement are given to the Majorettes by their co-captain, Kris Long. Perfection is the motto of the Drill Team as they perform with their customary accuracy. New dimensions of the band are seen in a reflection on a horn. Taking a "break", band members continue to march as they rest from their continuous playing.



From Formal . . . To Informa

JUNIOR-SENIOR WEEK

In the midst of fountains, lights, and endless display windows, this year's prom was held at Tyson's Corner. Because of the "unique" location, the theme — "The Rain, the Park, and Other Things" — was easily carried through. The effort and cooperation of both Juniors and Seniors made the evening a beautiful success.

Of course Juniors and Seniors do not always work so smoothly together. In fact during Junior-Senior Week the whole idea is to squelch the other class in a series of sports matches. The most publicized and tense is probably the Powderpuff Football Game. Although the Juniors put up a good fight, the Seniors were victorious. Crying and laughing, they stumbled off to their locker room.

Is there a better way for Mount Vernon's graduating class to end their final participation in school life?

The fountain added a utopian note to the atmosphere of the prom. With a slipping crown, new queen Cathy Sweatt has her escort readjust it. Chaperoning is not exactly a coveted job as is evident by Mr. Landes' expression. Gartered and tense, Mr. Kendall crouches for the rebound as a foul shot is taken. With a mighty smack, the volleyball sails back to the Seniors.

A Musical Comedy, Delightful And Amusing

THE BOYFRIEND

The Boyfriend, by Sandy Wilson, is a delightful spoof on girls' schools during the 1920's. As the plot unfolds, the very "proper" exterior of these finishing schools is unvieled to show the hanky-panky that goes on behind the scenes.

Acquiring props, painting scenery, making costumes, and rehearsing lines went into the tedious preparation of the production. As a result the play was a success with colorful scenery and beautiful music adding to the jaunty mood of the musical.

Wild entertainment at the café is provided by Lolita and Pépé as they dance to the beat of the "Carnival Tango". Thoughtfully stroking his mustache, Lord Brockhurst gawks at the girls "sur le plage". Kicking up a storm, Phil Coker and Kris Long do a swinging Charleston. With eager faces, Madame Dubonnet's girls listen to Dulcey.

Listening attentively to the commencement program, graduating Seniors wait to receive their diplomas. Two Seniors congratulate each other on graduation.

. . . And Each Goes Down His Separate Path

GRADUATION

Being handed that white scroll of paper symbolizes different things for many people. To some it represents having reached another plateau in life, and the start of a new and exciting future. To others it means the end of school work — freedom! But the feeling of exhilaration is shared by all.

Listening to the commencement program, and dreaming of the years ahead, one also dwells on the past four years. The good times and the friends made will always be remembered even though each will go down his separate path.

Remembering, Greg Keplinger withdraws from his noisy surroundings for a moment of quiet introspection. Giving his last speech, Larry Paxton, Senior President, stands before his peers.

Spirit, Fun, And Competition

HOMECOMING

Surrendering their umbrellas, the Homecoming Court rushed to the track, and in a miserable drizzle smiled as they were introduced. A tense hush fell over the crowd, and the new queen for 1970, Barbara Fitzpatrick, was announced. Warm congratulations and hugs overwhelmed the chill in the air. The participants grabbed for their coats and returned to the stands because no parade followed. This unique homecoming was a two part program — the TO BE CONTINUED type — because of the "unfavorable weather conditions." The next week though, class skits roused team spirit, and floats competed in originality and workmanship.

The dance was placed in the middle of this two week event. The theme, "Homecoming According to Peanuts," was carried through by converting the cafeteria into Snoopy's doghouse.

"I can't do this all night!" shouts Bill Landry as he stalls for time between acts. Moving strains of a war ballad float out to the audience from Lisa Barbour, the first place winner. Taking second place, Pat Wallace sings "L'Amour est Bleu".

A Variety Of Entertainment

VARIETY SHOW

The 1970 Variety Show offered an assortment of talent from singing, dancing, and baton twirling to an original piano composition by Liz Reynolds. As a bonus, the audience was entertained by Mrs. Lunter, acting as MC, with her jokes, song, and cheerleading act.

Privileged Juniors and Seniors were treated to a special musical assembly to hear Eddie Reece and his Singers. It exposed the upperclassmen to traditional and jazz-like tunes, and as a result made them realize they could enjoy all types of music.

"Shake hands with your neighbor" Eddie Reece urges the students. Eddie Reece and his Singers entertain Mount Vernon students.

WINTER ACTIVITIES

Mount Vernon students excel in all areas — physical, artistic, and intellectual. In sports, awards are given to those who have shown outstanding qualities not only for their ability, but also in sportsmanship. Creative talents are demonstrated in such things as the directing and managing of a fashion show. Then there are the honors for unusual mental aptitude. Perhaps the most desired is membership on the "It's Academic" team. After all, who wouldn't want themselves broadcasted on T.V.?

The "It's Academic" team consists of Larry Foust, Dee Stoehr, Sharon Wilkins, Clifford Snyder, Chris Wilkins, and George Stapleton. All proudly cradle their trophies for outstanding achievements in sports.

The controversial midi is modeled with nonchalance by senior Nancy Beatie. Displaying the newest in fashion are Terry Alexander and Richard Young.

Christmas Is A Time For Goodwill And Making Money

KEYETTE BAZAAR

Perhaps the favorite spots at the Keyette Christmas Bazaar were the pie throwing booth, and jolly ol' Santa Claus. Frustrated shoppers could amble over to the paste pies and let a poor helpless Keyette have it in the face and elsewhere. Above the carols were the wails of little children held on the lap of kindly Santa who suffered a rash from his newly acquired beard.

Besides these coveted jobs were booths selling jewelry, decorations, candles, and food. Not only profitable and a lot of hard work, the bazaar was fun for everyone involved.

Visiting Santa Claus, Mr. Landes accepts a candy cane. "Here's pie in your eye!" and Ginna Ghent gets just that.

The peace and beauty of Christmas is reflected by the shimmering tree. At the Boutique table, Kathy Stumm tries to sell the handsome goods.

Rhythm And Sound

Watching the dancers, a student ponders whether or not to venture onto the floor. No time for rest as long as the music plays on.

JUNIOR DANCE

Pounding rhythms and pulsating lights filled the gym with an electric excitement for the Junior dance. Performing were the Transition and the Blue Flask. With the exception of questionable conduct of non-Mount Vernon students, the dance was a great success.

Blue Flask drummer Jim West sings as he works out the beat. Arrested motion with the click of a camera.

A Glimpse At School Lif

CANDIDS

Although plays, and sports, and assemblies are all part of school life, the more commonplace happenings often escape the pages of a yearbook. The pranks, the work, the fun, and the frustration are what really make up the day of a student.

Mr. "T" hangs in effigy for various "crimes" against his English students. Carwashing may be dreary work, but it is one of the big money-making projects. Disaster hits and Key Club rushes to the rescue. Concentrating, Bill Daoulas strives to understand the teacher's lecture. Another day begins.

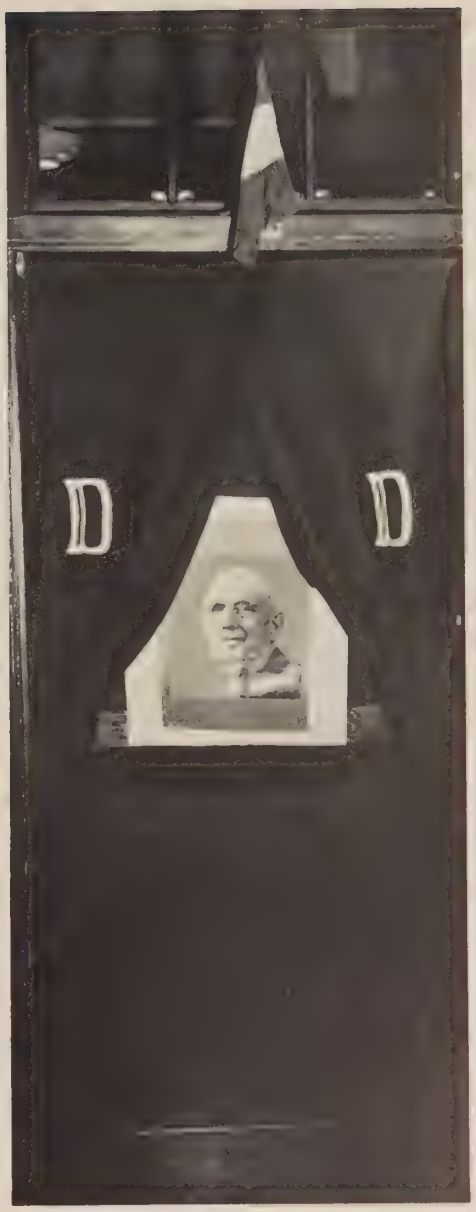
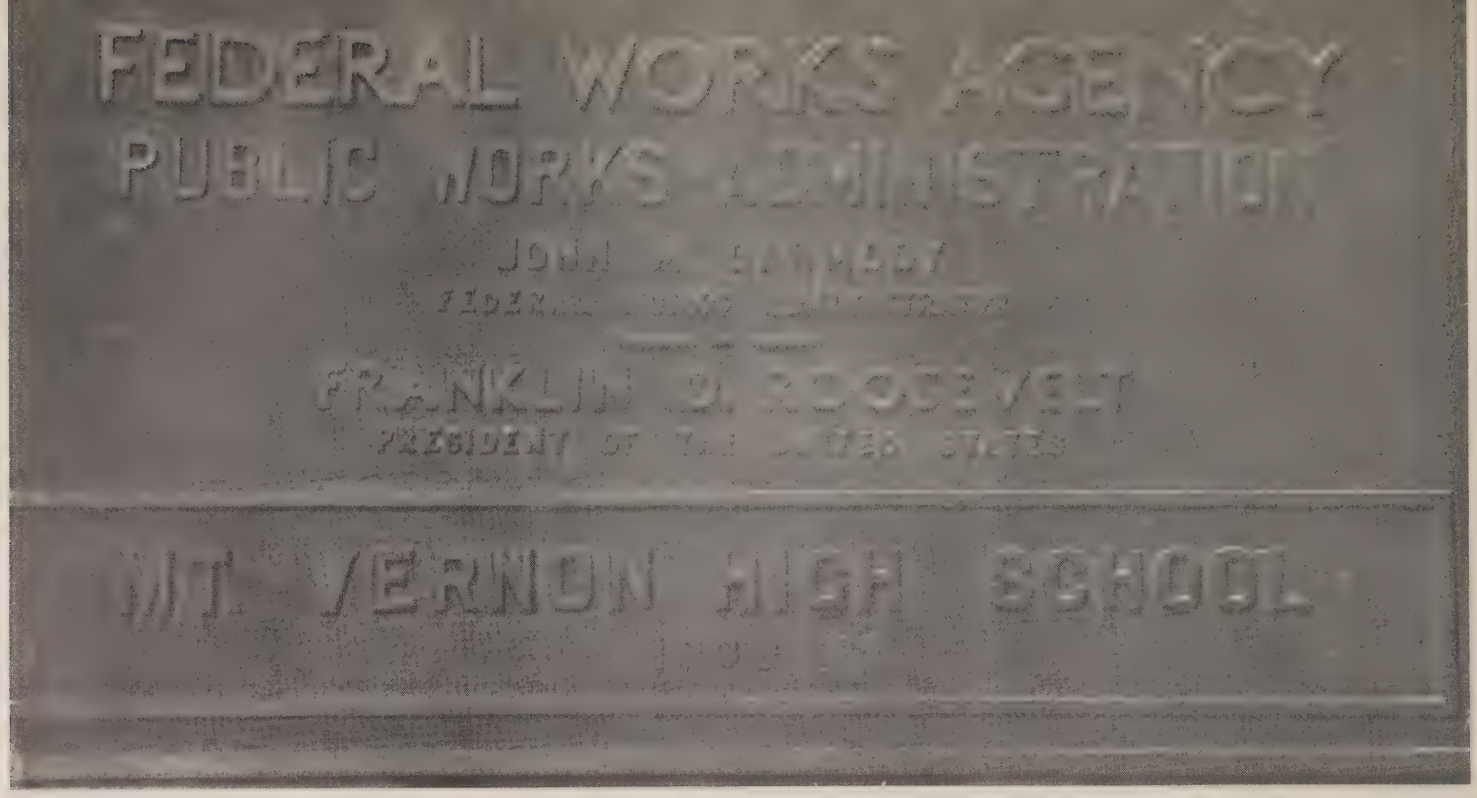
"Don't You Remember That?"

YEAR ACTIVITIES

As the year comes to a close, all look forward to the summer months, but also hate to part from friends. The end of the year is also a time for looking back. Just take this moment and remember . . . remember the fun, the embarrassing situations, the arguments, how hard you worked, and other little incidents. All that has happened this year has made impressions on you and has come to make you the person you are.

Mischief is uppermost in the minds of Mark Henry and David Olson as they contribute to Valentine Grafitti. Carelessly jumbled together, the desks carry the scars of wear throughout the year. A seven-day mourning for French President DeGaulle shows the concern of Mrs. Landgrabe's students. A familiar scene? Battling the way to their locker, everyone tries to get ready to go home.





The bronze plaque bears only a fraction of Mount Vernon's history. Although Mount Vernon's face must change, the inner spirit remains.

Mount Vernon As We Know It

A LAST LOOK

Mount Vernon — built in 1940 by the P.W.A. had a unique beginning, at least compared to the brand new schools popping up around it. Thirty-one years of educating students; weathering their failures as well as their triumphs. The halls resound with the phantoms of things past; petty quarrels, voices, and laughter ring out in silence. Now, before the tearing and rebuilding completely erases the traces of the old Mount Vernon, take a last look.

The hall has a strange appearance without the usual noise and bustle. The endless row of buses await the "move out" signal.

Classes

In learning I seek to differentiate certainty from uncertainty. I interpret and evaluate the pertinence of what is handed to me. Grappling with what is vast and absolute, I try to come to terms with myself. Having come to realize that I must season my life with the salt of truth, I try to share the fruits of my knowledge with others. Even with only one universal truth as a cornerstone, I can work out a flexible pattern of my own, thus calibrating my measure of knowledge.

FRESHMAN CLASS

We, the class of '74, entered our first year at Em Vee with our own individualism and pride. Winning at pep rallies and wearing baseball hats for homecoming showed only a small part of our unmatched spirit and unity. Having members in debate, majorettes, and band proved the versatility of our class. With a willingness to learn, we took part in the new elective English system. As we became acquainted with the new sights and sounds of high school, we took on new responsibilities and met new challenges.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

As a class we have established ourselves collectively as well as individually. By winning the Pep Jug and the honor "Most Spirited Class", we demonstrated our enthusiasm. Bakesales and carwashes provided for our homecoming float "Lucy's Psychiatric Booth". In our second year at Em Vee we have all taken on added responsibilities, fulfilling our wish to become self-reliant individuals as well as a united body – the class of '73.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Class of '72 eagerly met the challenges of the new school year. Besides the academic problems, we also faced new responsibilities as upperclassmen. We were familiarized with the spirit of competition during pep rallies and games, and gave up our Saturdays to clean the beautiful Mount Vernon stadium. As we look forward to our final year, we feel excitement, bewilderment, and joy, but for now we retain the fond memories of our junior year.

SENIOR CLASS

Being seniors meant laughing, crying, and maturing together for twelve years. Although we looked forward to graduation, we were sorry to see our high school years end. We were glad to be finished with Senior English and other academic woes, but we know we will look back with nostalgia. Cheering from the balcony at pep rallies, flashing our senior rings, and enjoying lawn privileges were only a few of the daily occurences which reminded us of our status at Mount Vernon. Undoubtedly the Class of '71 has left a part of itself behind.

Organizations

My everyday scholastic life often offers limited challenges which could be met by involving only a shadow of my true capacity for thinking or acting. Because of this, I observe that meeting with other individuals in order to follow dreams or to solve problems can often stimulate my thought processes and provide satisfaction. School-associated organizations can provide such an outlet.

Officers Give SCA A Foundation On Which To Build

SCA OFFICERS

Without strong, competent leaders, even the best representative body would have a difficult time accomplishing its purpose. Therefore, it can be said that a student government is only as good as its leaders. The Officers elected this year strove to act in the interest of the student body. The degree of success reached can be measured only by comparison with future governments.

First Vice President Introduces Changes To SCA

STUDENT COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION

Endeavoring to involve a greater proportion of the students, the SCA instigated a new process of selecting representatives. Restructuring the cabinet gave it greater outreach. An experimental program of discussion study halls was tried, as well as traditional SCA – sponsored social events and service projects. The Human Relations Board this year was much more active than it has been in the past, sponsoring Culture Week and forming a student-faculty committee to promote understanding and discussion between students and teachers.

Listening attentively to the prospective representatives are reviewing board members Bill Landry, Larry Foust, Tim Henry, and Sharon Wilkins.

KEY CLUB

What is the Key Club? Is it an elite group of young men? Or is it a club dedicated to helping others while enjoying a good time? The answers to these questions may be found in the Key Club's record. This year they participated in a walk for hunger to aid hungry peoples of the world. In addition to service projects, the Key Club had social fun together with the Keyettes, and at exclusive events such as the induction banquet.

KEYETTES

Working together in order to better the lives of those around them, the Keyettes never forgot one thing — each girl was an individual with her own special personality and talents. By putting together these fifty different talents, however, they accomplished what others left behind.

Their famed "Keyette Calander" was filled with events every week: working with Headstart children, holding the Keyette Bazaar to raise money for their Indian girl, raising money at bakesales to send to the Pakistan relief fund, and even checking coats at basketball games and wrestling matches. And somehow, there was always time for the slumber parties . . .

A cold Saturday morning does not stop Junior Keyettes from attending a district meeting. Keyettes Chris Bena and Jody DeJonghe strike an interesting pose for an idle camera.

SENIOR HONOR SOCIETY

Besides taking charge of the Honor Roll, the Senior Honor Society has been busy raising money for scholarships given at the end of the year to a needy and deserving student. Members of the Society must show qualities of leadership, service, and citizenship as well as scholarship; thus, these students are a well-rounded group of people outstanding in many areas.

Language Societies Recognize Fluent Upperclassmen

LANGUAGE HONOR SOCIETIES

Language Honor Societies were formed for the purpose of recognizing people with outstanding achievement in at least three semesters of a foreign language. This year, in addition to the Spanish and French Honor Societies, a new German Honor Society was formed. These groups stressed language and culture at both their meetings and on their field trips.

The German Club, like the Honor Society, stressed German language and culture. Traditional activities and events made up the main portion of the club's calendar.

Language Clubs Provide Atmosphere For Learning

FRENCH CLUB

This year the French Club kept busy learning about the country whose language they study. They spent some Wednesday meetings looking at slides and films of France, and discovered the excellence of French cuisine through dining out at French restaurants. Just for fun they went roller skating and held a back-to-school picnic.

Officers: M. Pickwick, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mrs. Avoli, Sponsor; C. Johnston, President; C. Hall, Treasurer; D. Bach, Vice-President; M. Pointon, Secretary.

LATIN CLUB

Latin. Is it a dead language? Not to the members of the Latin Club. Their interest has brought a dead language into reality, through such activities as the Pizza Dinner and the Latin newspaper. Bringing new life to something dead has brought many worthwhile projects and innovations.

SPANISH CLUB

With a membership of 125, the Spanish Club has the distinction of being one of the largest clubs in the school. Their main project this year was to adopt a Mexican boy through the Christian Children's Fund. Their other activities included an International Dinner, restaurant trips, and a Christmas Fiesta with the traditional piñata.

Discoveries By Science Club May Change Future

SCIENCE CLUB

Although plagued by disorganization this year, the Science Club did succeed in carrying out projects under the direction of three different presidents. Dedicated garden committee members donated free time during the summer and fall for weeding the courtyard. Three hundred tulips were planted by the club for use by the Biology Department. Students studied ecology in discussions led by Bruce Pederson, a member of the club. Plans were made for social events and field trips.

Officers — J. Krolak, Treasurer; J. Livsey, Vice-President; S. Wales, Secretary; B. King, President.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS

Since high school has been a basis for future life, Future Homemakers have become an integral part of this basis. Practicing new fashions, food, and etiquette ideas, the budding homemakers sponsored the traditional dinners and fashion show. Hoping for renewed membership of the upcoming year, the Future Homemakers are prepared for a world of growing heritage.

Future Roles Are Provided For

FUTURE TEACHERS

Understanding the teaching profession was the main goal of the FTA. Members tutored elementary children in reading and arithmetic on Saturdays. Around our school, they could be seen as teacher's aides and as actual teachers of classes. Teaching first hand added new experiences and insights into what it takes to be a good teacher, as well as giving a career preview.

FTA Officers: P. Martin, President; P. Wampler, Vice-President; M. Barros, Secretary-Treasurer.

Future Teachers — Front Row: P. Hess, L. Leggett, K. Stumm, B. Fuller, S. Sexton. Second Row: D. Greco, D. Miller, E. McLendon, S. Hacker, K. Miller, J. Owens, S. Simpkins, P. Johnson.

Future Secretaries: L. Frederick, M. Robbins, N. Brogden, S. Tomlin, O. McCarthy, C. Greene, N. Byrd, K. Bannister, B. Keelin.

FUTURE SECRETARIES

The business world is one of varied interests as the girls of Future Secretaries know. Their group is one where the common interest is used to plan many worthwhile activities. Preparing themselves for the future and having confidence to undertake new responsibilities is a key motto of Future Secretaries.

WORK PROGRAMS

Work programs such as Vocational Office Training, Distributive Education, and Industrial Cooperative Training, strove to prepare students for adulthood by co-operation of pupil, teacher, and employer. Attending school in the morning and working in the afternoon, vocational students were given responsibilities, both in the school curriculum and in the business world.

Officers – M. Garvey, Vice President; B. Carnes, President; S. Lambert, Secretary-Treasurer.

ART CLUB

Art – what is it? The question is one that has never been completely answered. However, the Art Club this year, as a revival of a previously defunct club, worked with one of the major characteristics of art – creativity. Creativity itself involves many different areas; the art club included work in the field of crafts as well as the fine arts.

New Clubs Acknowledge Varied Interests At Mount Vernon

Students who were mathematically inclined found that participating in the Interscholastic Mathematics League provided exciting challenges. Math Team members had to be able to apply basic knowledge to problem-solving under stress. For those on the team, pep talks before a meet and disgusted groans after getting a wrong answer were a way of life.

Like the Math Team, the Swim Club knew the spirit of competition. The club, new this year to Mount Vernon, was comprised not only of the competing team, but also of students who enjoyed swimming as a sport.

Swim Club — Front Row: D. Paulger, J. Jones, G. Jones, President; B. Jones, M. Cassassa. Second Row: M. Rice, Vice-President; K. Paulger, K. Scott, K. Sorlie, C. Paradise, K. Paradise, Secretary; M. Shields. Third Row: J. Ely, T. Donaldson, J. Ratkus.

Debaters Carry On Winning Tradition

DEBATE TEAM

Carrying on a winning tradition is a big job, but this was the task left to the Debate Team this fall. After capturing the Virginia State Affirmative Championship last spring, this year's debaters began the season by taking trophies at Catonsville and West Springfield. In order to meet the challenge before them, debaters spent long hours gathering information, constructing cases, and practicing among themselves in scrimmages.

INTERNATIONAL THESPIAN SOCIETY

The stage . . . lights . . . props . . . script . . . curtains . . . settings. All tools of the audience's imagination. Yet, the most important element is missing — the people, actors and actresses. The International Thespians is an honor society for these actors and actresses, as well as for those who work behind the scenes — constructing the set, making the costumes, applying the make-up and running countless errands. Membership is given on the basis of accomplishment in more than one area.

EM VEE HI

Room 120 during seventh period was a nucleus of bustling activity. Interviews had to be scheduled; stories had to be written; layouts had to be planned; typing had to be done. The EM VEE HI, besides sponsoring Twirp Week, sent delegates to a conference at Columbia University in the spring. The staff, comprised mostly of people in their first year on the staff, looked to the general student body for contributing editors. By involving outsiders' opinions, the paper was able to achieve a deeper and more versatile range of topics. The EM VEE HI also switched to a smaller type size in order to feature more stories.

SURVEYOR STAFF

The publication of the 1971 SURVEYOR included soliciting advertisements from local businesses, identifying 1700 students, tracking down club presidents for activity information, drawing and redrawing layouts, complaining to "Mr. T", working on weekends and holidays to meet deadlines. Dedicated photographers Bob King and David Olson sometimes spent as much as six hours a day in the darkroom developing pictures for frenzied editors. Even though many hundreds of hours of work have been spent in "The Black Hole of Calcutta" (the Yearbook Room) preparing the yearbook, its success can be gauged only by the students.

Politically Minded Students Create Model United Nations

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

International Relations could be more properly classified as a discussion group than as a club. The group met informally in the homes of members to discuss international affairs. The IRC constructed a model United Nations and entered it in a contest against other groups. Israel, designed by Joe Wilson and Sue Woods, won a plague as the third place nation. The group also showed its diplomatic interest by leading foreign educators around our school. Another project is that of trying to sponsor AFS students.

PEP CLUB

Pep Club membership was open to all students who wished to actively support Mount Vernon High School teams. Whether at home games or away, the Pep Club sparked enthusiasm for the Majors. One of the focal points of Friday morning pep rallies was the awarding of the Pep Jug to the most spirited class. The Pep Club helped unify loyal Mount Vernonites.

Cheerleaders' Duties Never End

The work of the cheerleaders began before school even opened with summer practices. The Football season began with its wide range of activities from creating spirited pep rallies to decorating locker rooms to appearing every Friday night. The work, however, did not end with the football season, but continued with other sports as well, making the cheerleaders among the busiest in the school.

An after-school practice is led by Captain Barb Fitzpatrick. Specialized talents must come naturally to a cheerleader. Here Ginna and Peggy demonstrate their ladder-climbing ability.

DRILL TEAM

Poised pompons, rhythmical movements, and the sharp "tweet-tweet" of whistles characterized Drill Team participation in halftime events. Practices during the summer and fall helped the girls improve their routines. Besides marching at the Prep School, Winchester, and George Washington parades, members showed dedication by formulating creative treats for their locker pals. Money-raising activities included summer bakesales, carwashes, and an ornament sale at Christmas time.

MAJORETTES

Entertaining halftime audiences in all types of weather were the Majorettes, all underclassmen. Besides new uniforms and new routines, the Majorettes this year acquired another new element — Miss Morse, their sponsor. This proved to be a valuable acquisition, for her guidance, combined with long hours of practice, helped to make a skilled twirling team.

COLOR GUARD

The Color Guard, originally being formed solely to honor the American tradition, has developed into a more active part of the school. With summer practices they perfected a routine. By increasing the number of girls from ten to fifteen, the Color Guard showed a capacity for change. New school uniforms, halftime shows, and track locker pals all made students more aware of the Color Guard.

Rigid attention is the pose of Color Guard girls as they await the beginning of a routine.

BAND

This year the Marching Majors existed not as one band, but as two bands. New uniforms and a new director brought new methods and a new look to the band. Not only did they perform at the Christmas Concert, the Spring Concert, and the halftime shows, but they marched in the George Washington and Winchester parades. Mount Vernon band members also had the opportunity to play at the Regional District Festival, the Solo Ensemble Festival, and in regional and all-state bands.

Choral Students Receive Opportunity To Develop Musical Abilities

CHORAL DEPARTMENT

From Beginning Girls' to Concert Choir, our choral program gave students a chance to study fundamentals of music. As well as school concerts, Baccalaureate, and Graduation, the Concert Choir sang for non-school groups, such as Walter Reed Hospital. In addition to the three choruses, Choir, Choraleers, and Madrigals, the Choral Department formed a new Girls' Barbershop Group.

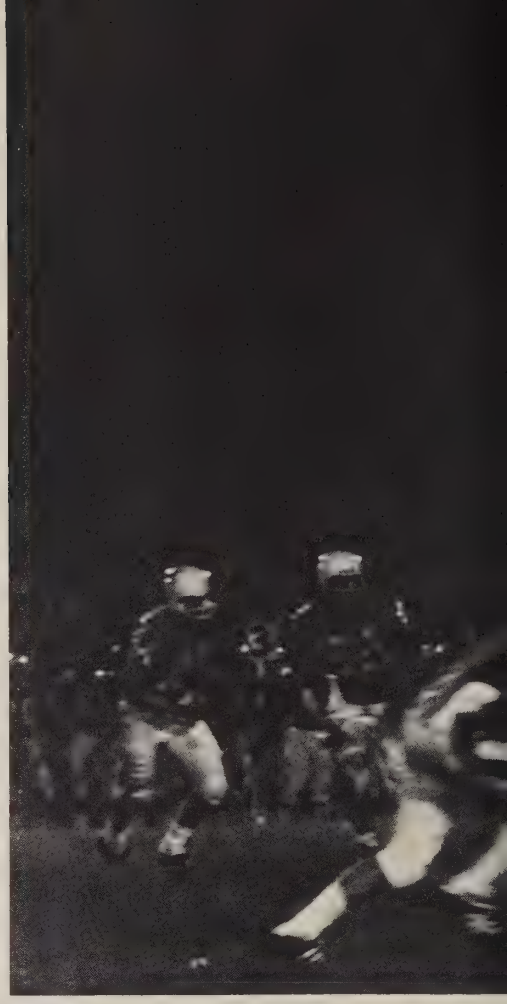
Sports

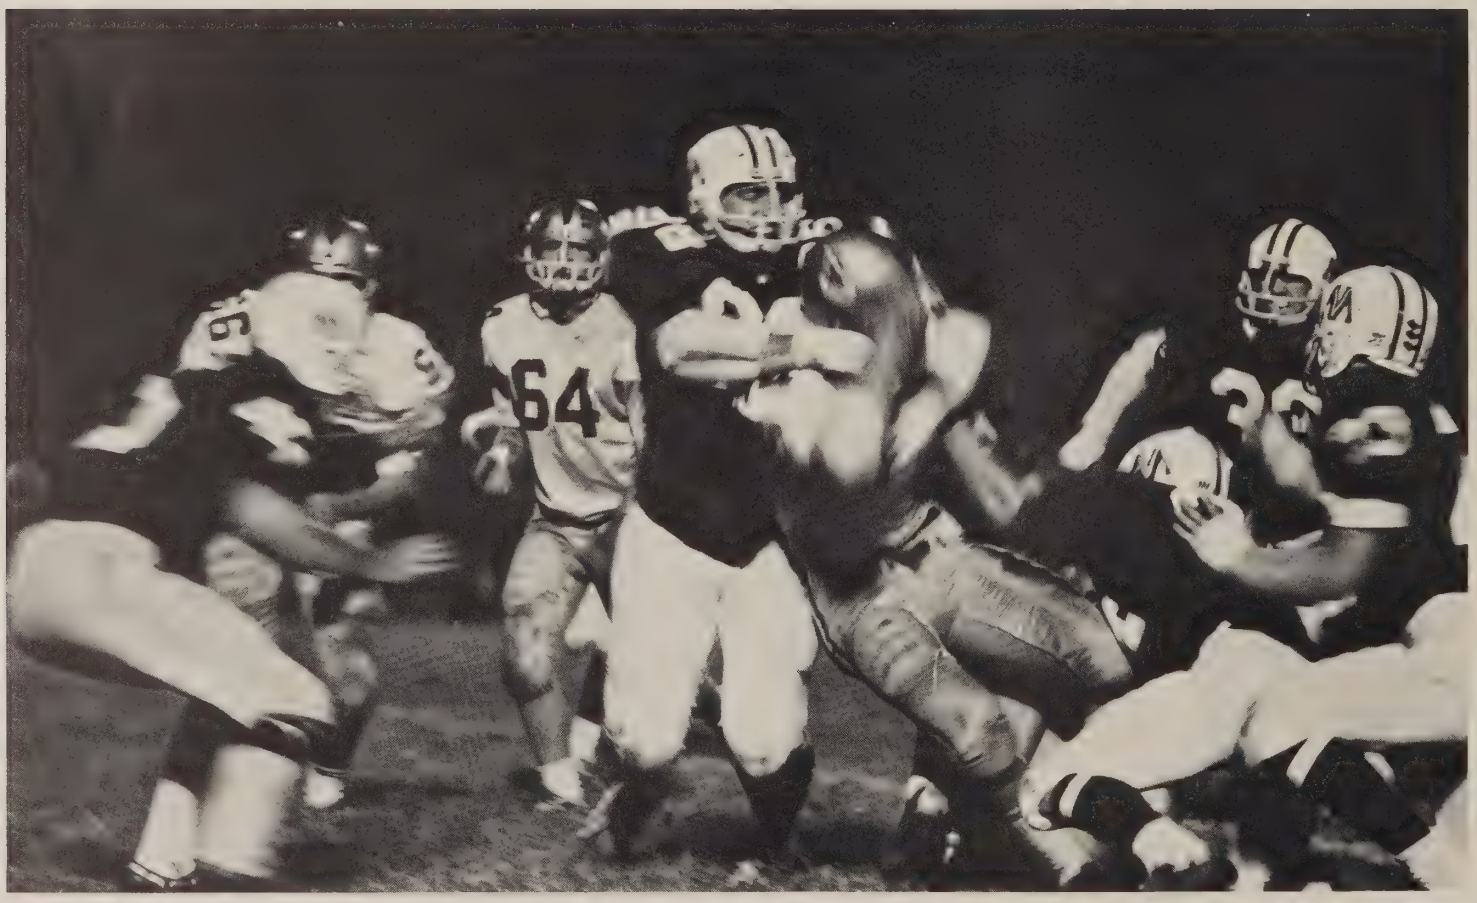
Whether as a consequence of elation or ignominy, gain or loss, each of my experiences contributes to my changing pattern of thoughts. My mind is like a kaleidoscope — sometimes a breathtaking and beautiful arrangement, and other times only a shifting confusion. In athletic competition I involve not only my muscles but my emotions and my endurance. Thus, sports involve my total self.

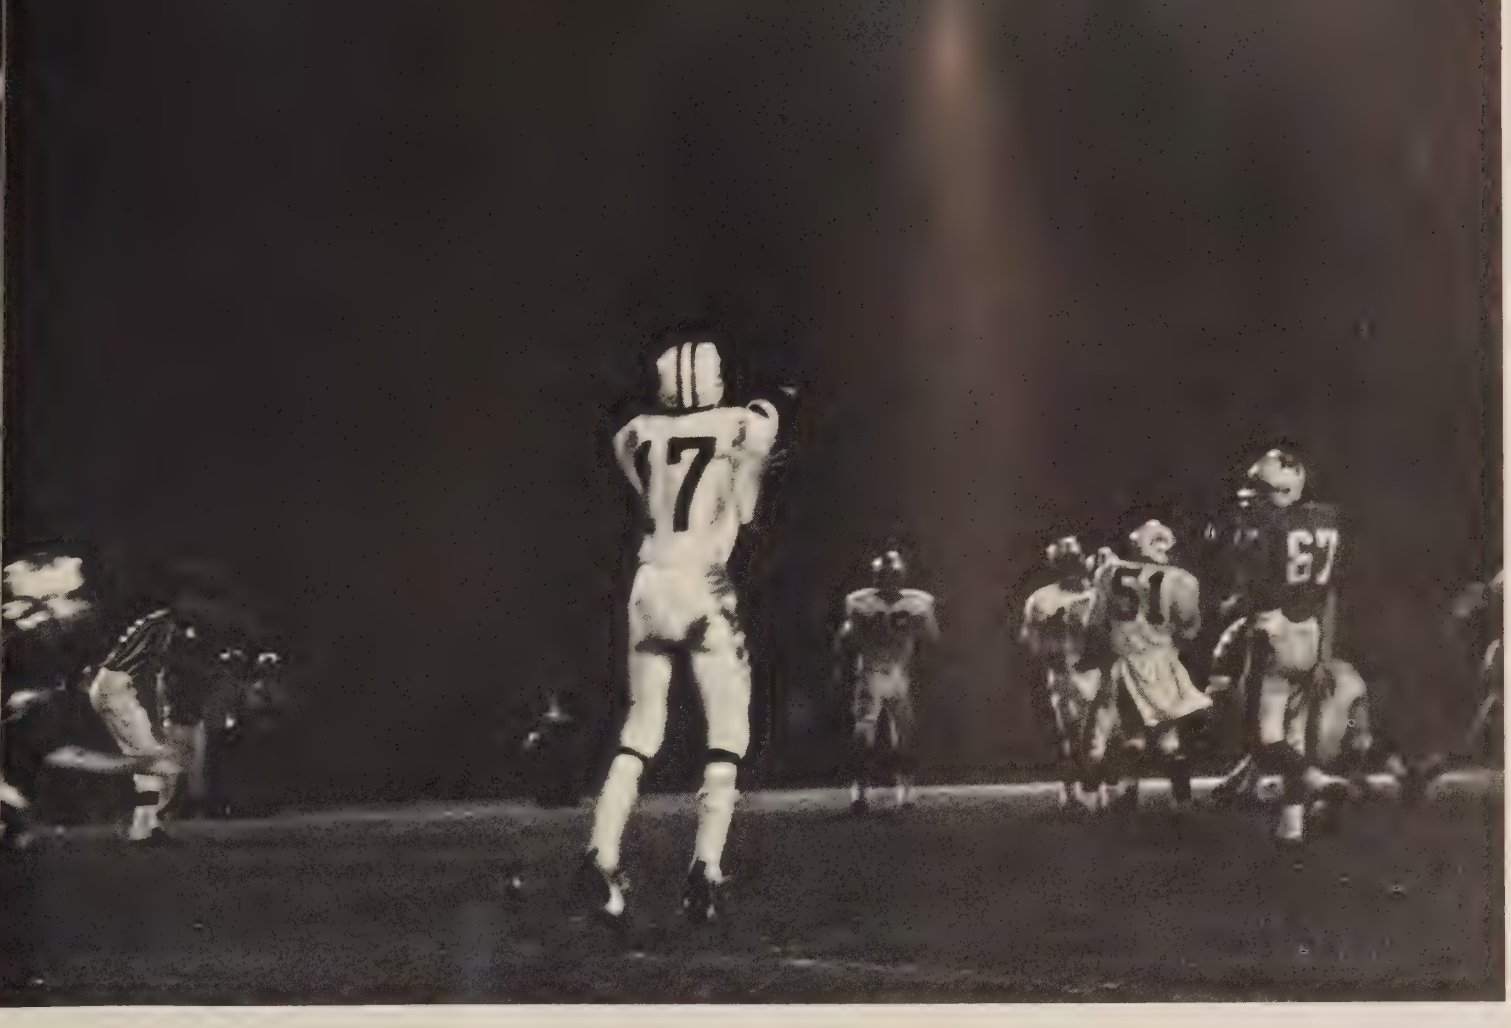
Majors Uphold Winning Tradition



VARSITY FOOTBALL

Every sport has its ups and downs and the Majors' 1970 football season was no exception. After suffering a heartbreaking 14-13 loss to Edison in the season opener, the Majors rose to defeat West Springfield, the pre-season favorite, by the seldom-seen score of 2-0. Despite a 14-7 setback to the regional champions, Mount Vernon then reeled off four straight wins. Entertaining hopes of a regional playoff berth, the Majors entered their homecoming game and needed a touchdown in the final seconds to salvage a tie. Fort Hunt then loomed as the only barrier to the District crown, but a single conversion and crucial, questionable penalty accounted for the margin of defeat. Looking back at what might have been, and what actually happened, the season would have to rate as a tremendous disappointment to the fans, coaches, and players themselves.





Latching onto a pass, Randy Knight converts a crucial third down play against Marshall's zone defense. Manhandling a Lancer fullback, Fred Burks and Co. crush another Lee drive. Following his blocker, halfback Doug Jones cuts upfield.

Harriers Gain Win Over Groveton

CROSS COUNTRY

Surprisingly enough, the 1970 cross country team turned in a fairly creditable performance. Their 1-5 record was misleading and did not accurately reflect the ability of the team. They competed in what was known as the toughest district in the state, meeting the state champions three times and the fourth best team once. In the two remaining meets, the squad suffered a close defeat at the hands of Hayfield and also racked up a big 27-28 decision over an old nemesis, Groveton.

Stickgirls Face Stiff Competition And The Elements

HOCKEY

Neither rain, nor sleet, nor hail, nor snow could keep Mount Vernon's hockey players from driving on, on toward that elusive first victory. Playing against the bigger and more experienced teams of Northern Virginia, our Varsity stickgirls did manage a 1-1 tie with a powerful Spartan team. However our Junior Varsity girls finished with an undefeated season, providing for a brighter outlook for next season.

MV Displays Strength At Regional Tournament

WRESTLING

Mount Vernon's '71 varsity squad fell victims to poor attitudes and hard luck. Not living up to their potential, the team finished third in district and only sent five grapplers to the regional meet. The varsity athletes did not seem to have the old spark as many boys failed to make weight and few even quit. These personal actions slowed a squad that was led by both old and new athletes, but their season was highlighted by many young grapplers who look toward a promising future.

Shaking hands in the prematch tradition, MV captains Don Flattery and Richard Young greet the Atoms. Pinning his adversary, Max Lorenzo shows great promise.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Could it be possible for a basketball team from Mount Vernon to be the preseason favorite for the Gunston District title? Despite the fact that Mount Vernon lost two key forwards due to transfers, one newspaper did indeed pick the Majors over Groveton and West Springfield in the early going, an accomplishment in itself. However, the cagers could not live up to these expectations and had to settle for a fourth place finish in the regular season race. They matched the record of the previous year, finishing 6-6 in District play and 7-11 overall.

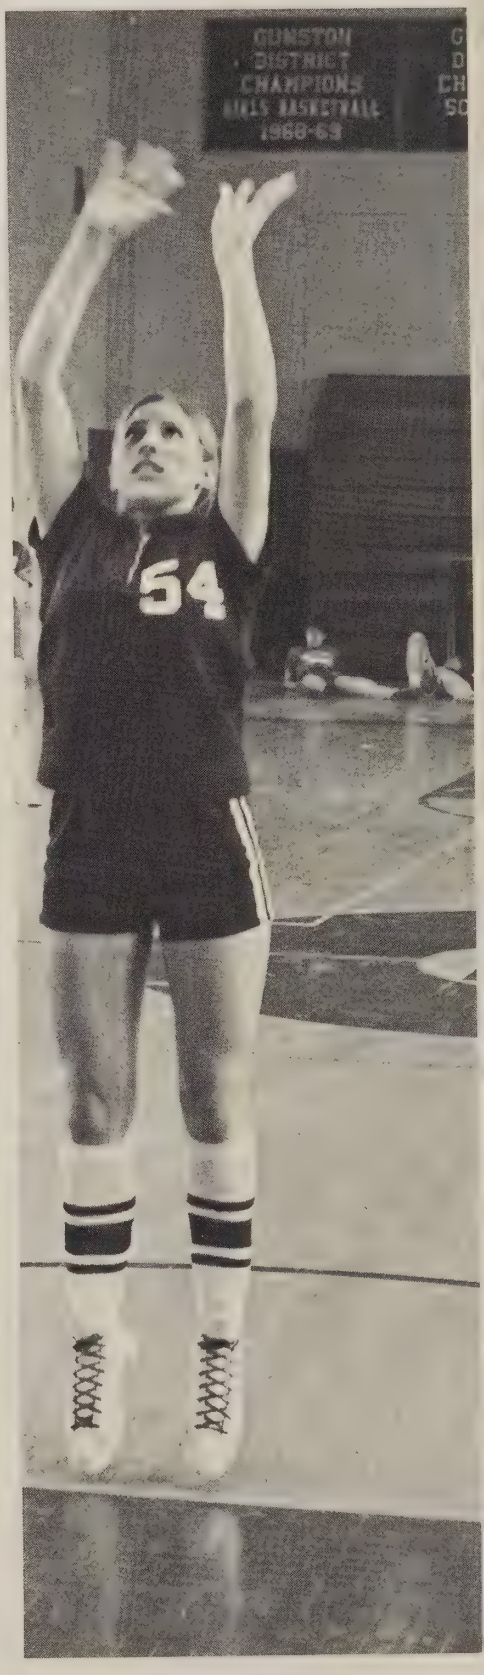
GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Mount Vernon's female basketball players, although failing to recapture the Gunston District title taken during the 1968-1969 campaign, turned in a very creditable performance. Coached by Miss Sue Vail, and inspired by the playmaking of Lisa Barbour, and the defensive work of Tad Leverenz, the Majors came through to defeat West Springfield, Lee and Fort Hunt, three very tough teams.



Shooting a free throw, defensive specialist Tad Levernez seldom finds herself at this end of the floor.

Winter Track Becomes A Sport

WINTER TRACK

Judging by winter track's first varsity season, this sport appears to be one of individual preparation. Their competition consists of individual achievement instead of team improvement, but this does not degrade the sport. Actually, one can get a preview of the stronger athletes who plan to peak during the spring competition. The team itself did not fair too well in all the winter meets, but some strong competitors have evolved and look promising for the spring.

Striding along the inside lane, Dave Kelly practices to improve his time.

VARSITY BASEBALL

When the first three batters of the 1970 baseball campaign struck out, Coach John Yednock foresaw a minor hitting problem. With only two players returning from last year's team, Mount Vernon was the defending District champion in name only. However, even with spotty play in all facets of the game and the dismissal of two key players, the Majors still managed an 8-12 record, which easily could have been reversed had any breaks gone their way. Thus three victories over Fort Hunt could serve as the only bright spots in a lackluster season.

Spring Competition Is Varied

SPRING SPORTS

Although the spirit and enthusiasm that prevailed during the fall and winter sport seasons has drained away by the time spring rolls around, nevertheless Mount Vernon's spring sports are very important to the school. The junior varsity baseball team, coached by Mr. Bob Menefee, finished with an 11-3 record, good enough to take first place in District. Our golf team stroked their way into second place among the thirty schools in the Quantico Invitational Tournament, and our tennis team managed to reach the .500 plateau despite an extremely competitive district.

Cindermen Finish Second In District

TRACK

Track. This sport is one of the most demanding activities in which a young aspiring athlete can participate. The excruciating pain and personal frustration are very evident in each practice, but in order to win, the team must remain dedicated. This dedication is the key to success as our 1969-70 demonstrated. Highlighted by close tri-meets and individual achievements, the MV squad finished third in the Gunston District, but their potential ability points to a promising season in '71.

Faculty

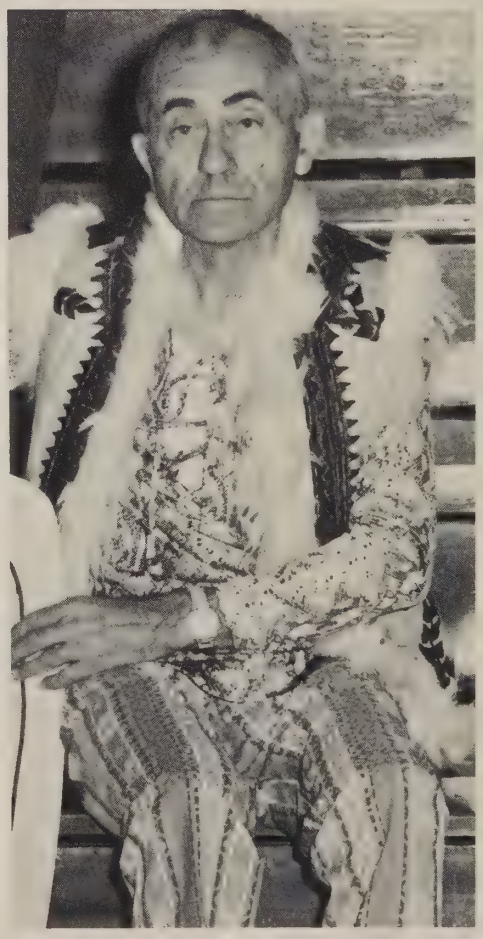
The thread of truth is a force inherent in my nature. It is an often productive mean, yet an end in itself. Its search is endless; its fulfillment incomprehensible. Although I may widen my outlook through extracurricular life, association with other students, and contact with the faculty, the real challenge will always lie within myself and in the way I interpret experience.

All Around School Year Highlights Administration

ADMINISTRATION

Contrary to the belief of a few MV students, the administration is not a group of hard-headed policemen. It is, rather, a group of individuals dedicated to their jobs. These are the people who maintain the balance of our school. They are the people who must make spur-of-the-moment decisions, and face the rebuttal which often follows. They are the ones who must satisfy two and sometimes three generations.

Mr. Landes is the man entrusted with responsibility for Mt. Vernon's welfare. Our principal is a compassionate individual, faced with the task of maintaining balance at MV.



A beaming Mr. Landes attests to the success of the Faculty Dinner. Together with his wife, Mr. Landes smiles thanks to the faculty for their applause. Sporting a flashy outfit, Mr. Landes takes a break during the fashion show. Demonstrating his versatility is faculty basketball player, Mr. Kaz. Administration is not all paperwork as Mr. Propps realizes. Confusion is the key word as Mr. Bernard is confronted with a new problem.

Guidance Becomes A Service Corps

GUIDANCE

This year the counselors worked especially hard to help students make decisions concerning their future education. The department's office was overflowing with literature concerning colleges, universities, and job training. Many students were astounded by the wealth of information they received from the Guidance department.

Minor in comparison to their tremendous job of student preparation, yet extremely beneficial to the school's balance, is parental consultation. In these discussions the counselors became "psychologists" in an effort to catalyze the students' development and solve disciplinary problems. Through their selfless service to the students and school, the Guidance department gained great respect from both the students and the administration.

Awaiting her next student's arrival, Mrs. Price is delighted at having her picture taken. Striding down the hall, guidance counselor Mr. Shelton is caught by the eye of the camera.

Librarians And Secretaries Take Care Of 2 Of The 3 R's

LIBRARIANS

Once again the library proved to be a vital part of our school life. The librarians worked diligently to make the library a versatile facility. Not only was there a wide range of books to choose from, but one could also use the microfilm, the magazines, the audio-visual machines and the recording facilities. There were many times when the library was filled with students doing research work for term papers. Other students enjoyed quiet, relaxed moments of pleasurable reading. Through the library it was possible for students to absorb some of the myriad thoughts of various authors.

Duty at the check-out counter is only one of Mrs. Trutt's jobs. A question asked by a student causes the librarians to ponder. Filing and typing, Mrs. Phillips becomes accustomed to her routine duties. An intent look is displayed by guidance secretary, Mrs. Chambers. With amusement, Mrs. Gates listens to a student's reason for tardiness.

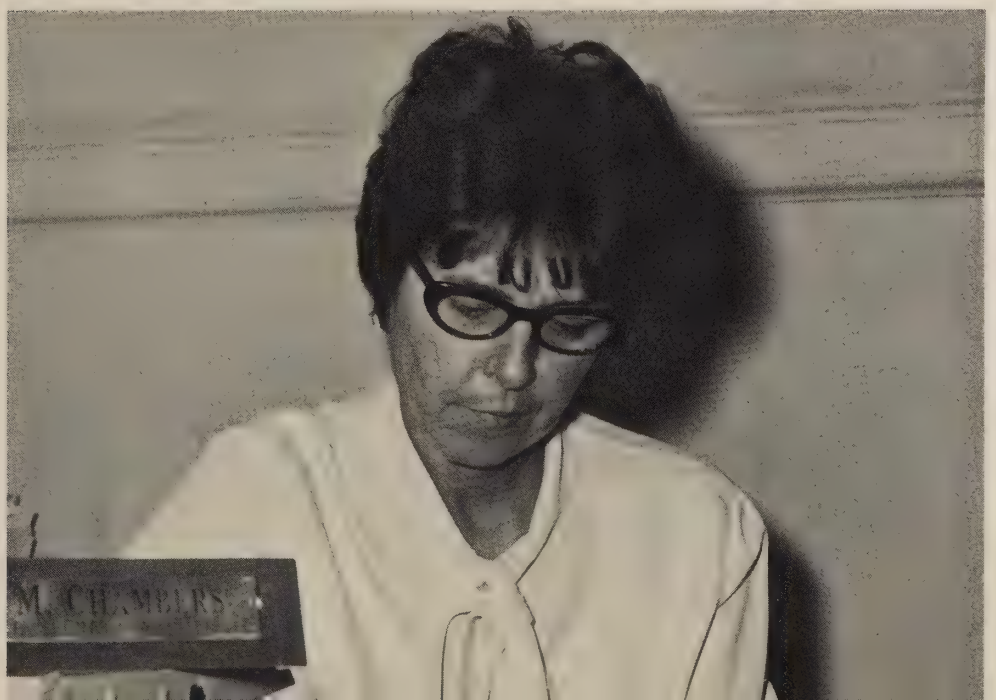
SECRETARIES

For the secretaries at Mount Vernon, there was never a dull moment. Constantly answering telephones as well as communicating with county officials, our secretaries rarely found time for a coffee break. They learned to keep "cool" as they were faced with dilemmas brought on by students, teachers, and parents.

The three-thirty bell meant only more work to them, as they had to organize their work before they could go home to the rest they greatly deserved. Our secretaries, through their devoted service have gained the respect of everyone, by casting aside their own problems and concentrating on ours.



LANGUAGE

Any foreign language student can tell you that learning a language is a long and painful process, but it has its rewards. Besides the well-earned satisfaction of learning a foreign language the knowledge of a foreign language and its culture will help end the world's number one problem — lack of communication.

BUSINESS

Business classes were places where one uncovered skills one never knew were possessed. Students soon discovered that typing entailed more than just pushing keys. They learned that shorthand required more than an artistic ability. Through business courses students learned that working in an office is more than smiling nicely and more than taking coffee breaks. It was here that students learned the balance of perfection that they will need on future occupations.

ENGLISH

English classes were made much more interesting this year as teachers encouraged discussion and involvement. It was not at all unusual to hear a discussion in one of the English rooms. Several English classes went to plays in the District in an effort to further involve the students.

Teaching English is not an easy task. New methods are constantly being introduced and a teacher is confronted with the job of finding a method which is best suited to their classes. Students were encouraged to criticize authors, thereby learning more about writing than they would by simply reading and being quizzed. So through their English classes, students learned realism and idealism, and finally, they learned how to put them together.

These Are Called The Finer Things In Life

FINE ARTS

Glistening rays of sunlight filtering through a stained glass window, the rousing cadence of our band playing the theme from The Man of La Mancha, the masterful interpretation of a Broadway hit comedy — these are only a few of the many contributions the Fine Arts Department makes to MVHS. The Art department is a constant source of beauty and creativity; every football season the MVHS Marching Majors provide stimulating home game halftime entertainment, and the Drama department plays provide a stimulating experience.

MATHEMATICS

"Is this a function or relation? How can X approach epsilon or a limit?" These were just a few of the questions that students had to answer in math classes. Once again students were faced with another language. Its alphabet was comprised with symbols instead of letters. Instead of using sentences, math used formulas and theorems to express its ideas.

Mount Vernon was also very proud of its recently installed computer facility. Through the use of the computer, students learned to apply their knowledge in a more realistic light.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Though usually thought of as a time of fun and games, physical education teaches us many basic skills. In P.E. we learned how to use various muscles, and also how to care for them. We developed muscles we never even knew existed, and by doing so we learned the Physical Balance of our bodies.

Even in its strictest moments, P.E. was fun. We learned different games, as well as the principles of sportmanship and team work. In a general sense, P.E. is a necessity to the rounding of the individual.

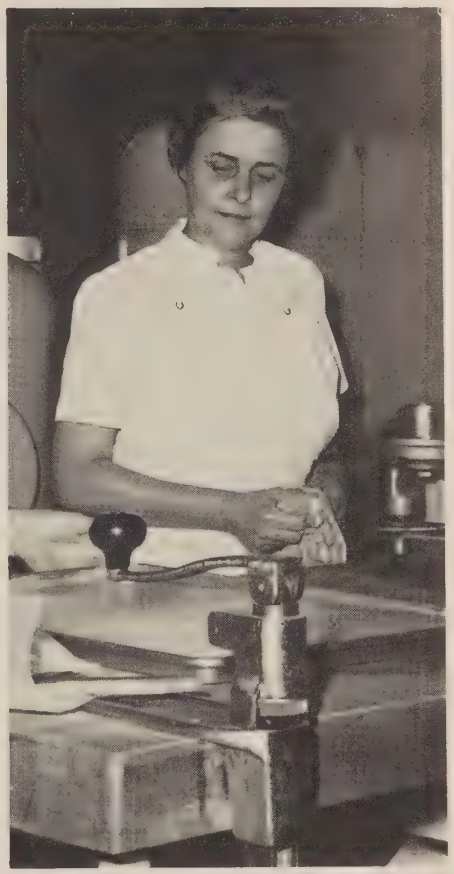
Food And Exercise Keep Us Healthy



CLINIC, COOKS, AND CUSTODIANS

These were the silent people who received little recognition for the tremendous service they did for Mount Vernon. These were the men and women who cleaned the rooms, and cooked the food. They were the workers who washed the floors, and planned our meals. They were the laborers who cured our diseases and patched our painful bruises. They were the silent ones.

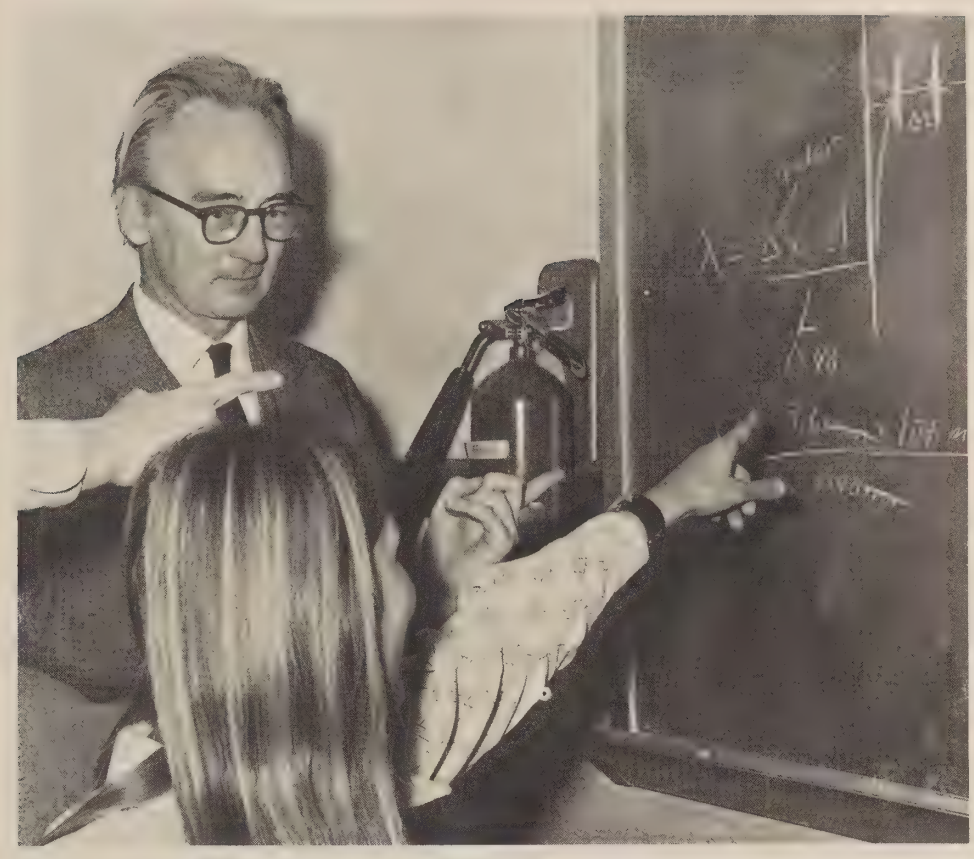
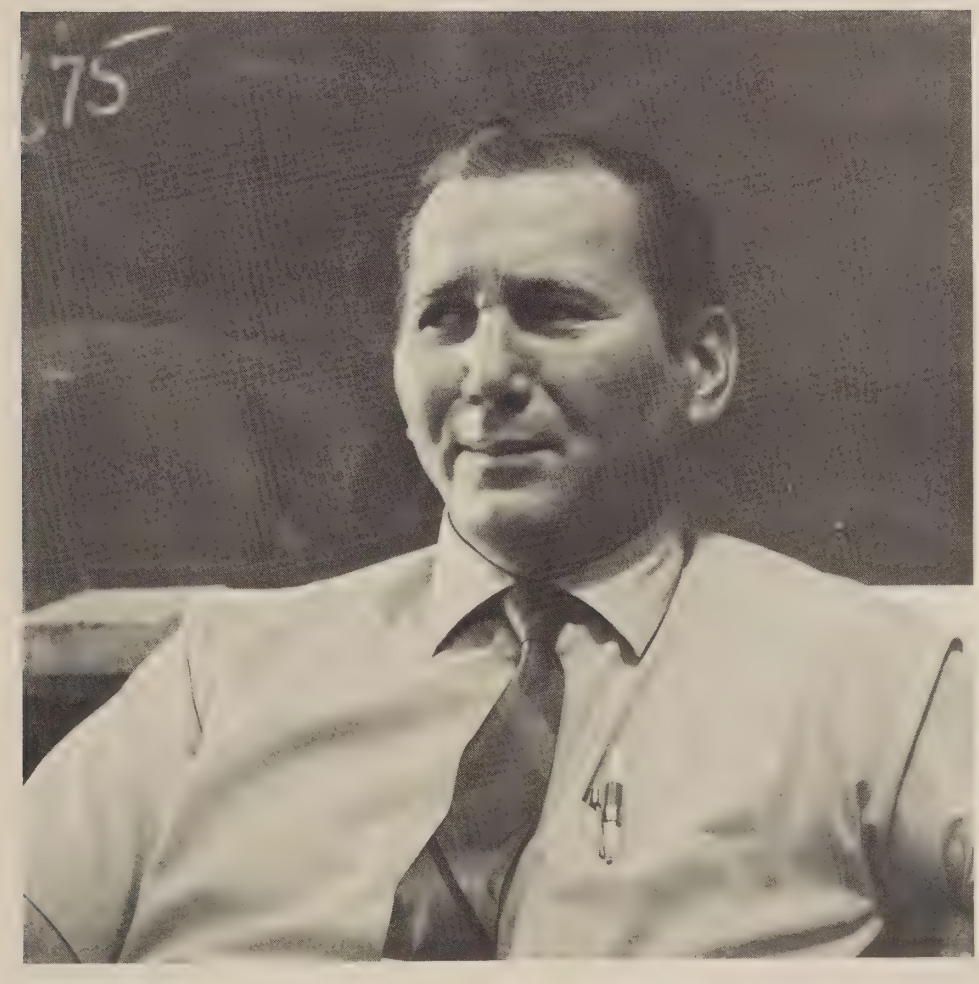
SCIENCE

Students who took Science at MV were taught a different language. They learned the fundamentals of life and existence. Elements and formulas made up their new vocabulary as they investigated the secrets of our universe. Students were taught to use their own initiative and motivation to answer and prove the many questions and theories they wondered about.

The Science department spent much time and money in an effort to expand the resources available to interested students. Science labs were equipped with many facilities designed to aid the student in his individual search for knowledge.





Listening to an inquisitive student, Mr. Price prepares to explain a wave-length problem. Staring in disbelief, Mr. Maskelenko, department chairman, is amazed by the absurdity of a student's statement. Expounding on the protonic structure of the atom, Mr. Marcus finds a model to be very useful.

Students Help Teachers Plan

SOCIAL STUDIES

Whether debating the differences between social and political nationalism or examining mother nature's geographical masterpieces, the social science department stressed awareness. Students were taught to observe their surroundings and to take pride in their heritage. They were taught not just facts, but the reasons behind them. They were taught to discuss among one another in an effort to increase their knowledge and broaden their views.

Social Studies classes became an interesting part of the student's day-to-day routine, as a result, the department's never ending effort to involve the student. This was their move towards awareness.

Looking over a student's work, Mr. Kerlin also doubles as equipment manager and J.V. Wrestling coach. Flipping through his notes, Mount Vernon's Sunshine Kid, Mr. Skinner reviews his pre-game announcements.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Preparing students for future work, the Vocational Guidance department taught students the "right" way to do things. Girls learned to prepare for the future through the skills they learned in Home Economics, Boys learned the various methods of graphical designing as well as the skill of handling tools.

Through its courses, the Vocational Guidance department strove to give the students a balance of skills he will use in the future.

I want my life to be more than an existence. I want to be free: to balance without crutches. My mind is filled with questions which are overreaching, overriding, and persistent and which clamor to be heard and answered. The answer, paradoxically, also is there, waiting for the time when I choose to face it. It is solemn, yet joyous, formidable yet welcoming. Perhaps the whole of it is beyond human reach, but my one fistful of truth has power to sustain.

UNITED VIRGINIA BANK

What do you know about banking — very much or practically nothing? If you are one of those unfortunate people who thinks a check is something you put in an answer blank, or that a balance is something tight-rope walkers have, you had better let the United Virginia Bank handle your business affairs. Located at 515 King Street, United Virginia is one of the best places to open your account.

In utter frustration, Bob Tzudiker tries to get his point across, as Jane Hedgepeth and Gene Hastings watch.

The 1971 SURVEYOR editors wish to acknowledge the following people:

Howard and Ruth Marler in appreciation for giving their aid freely and for their valuable photographic assistance.

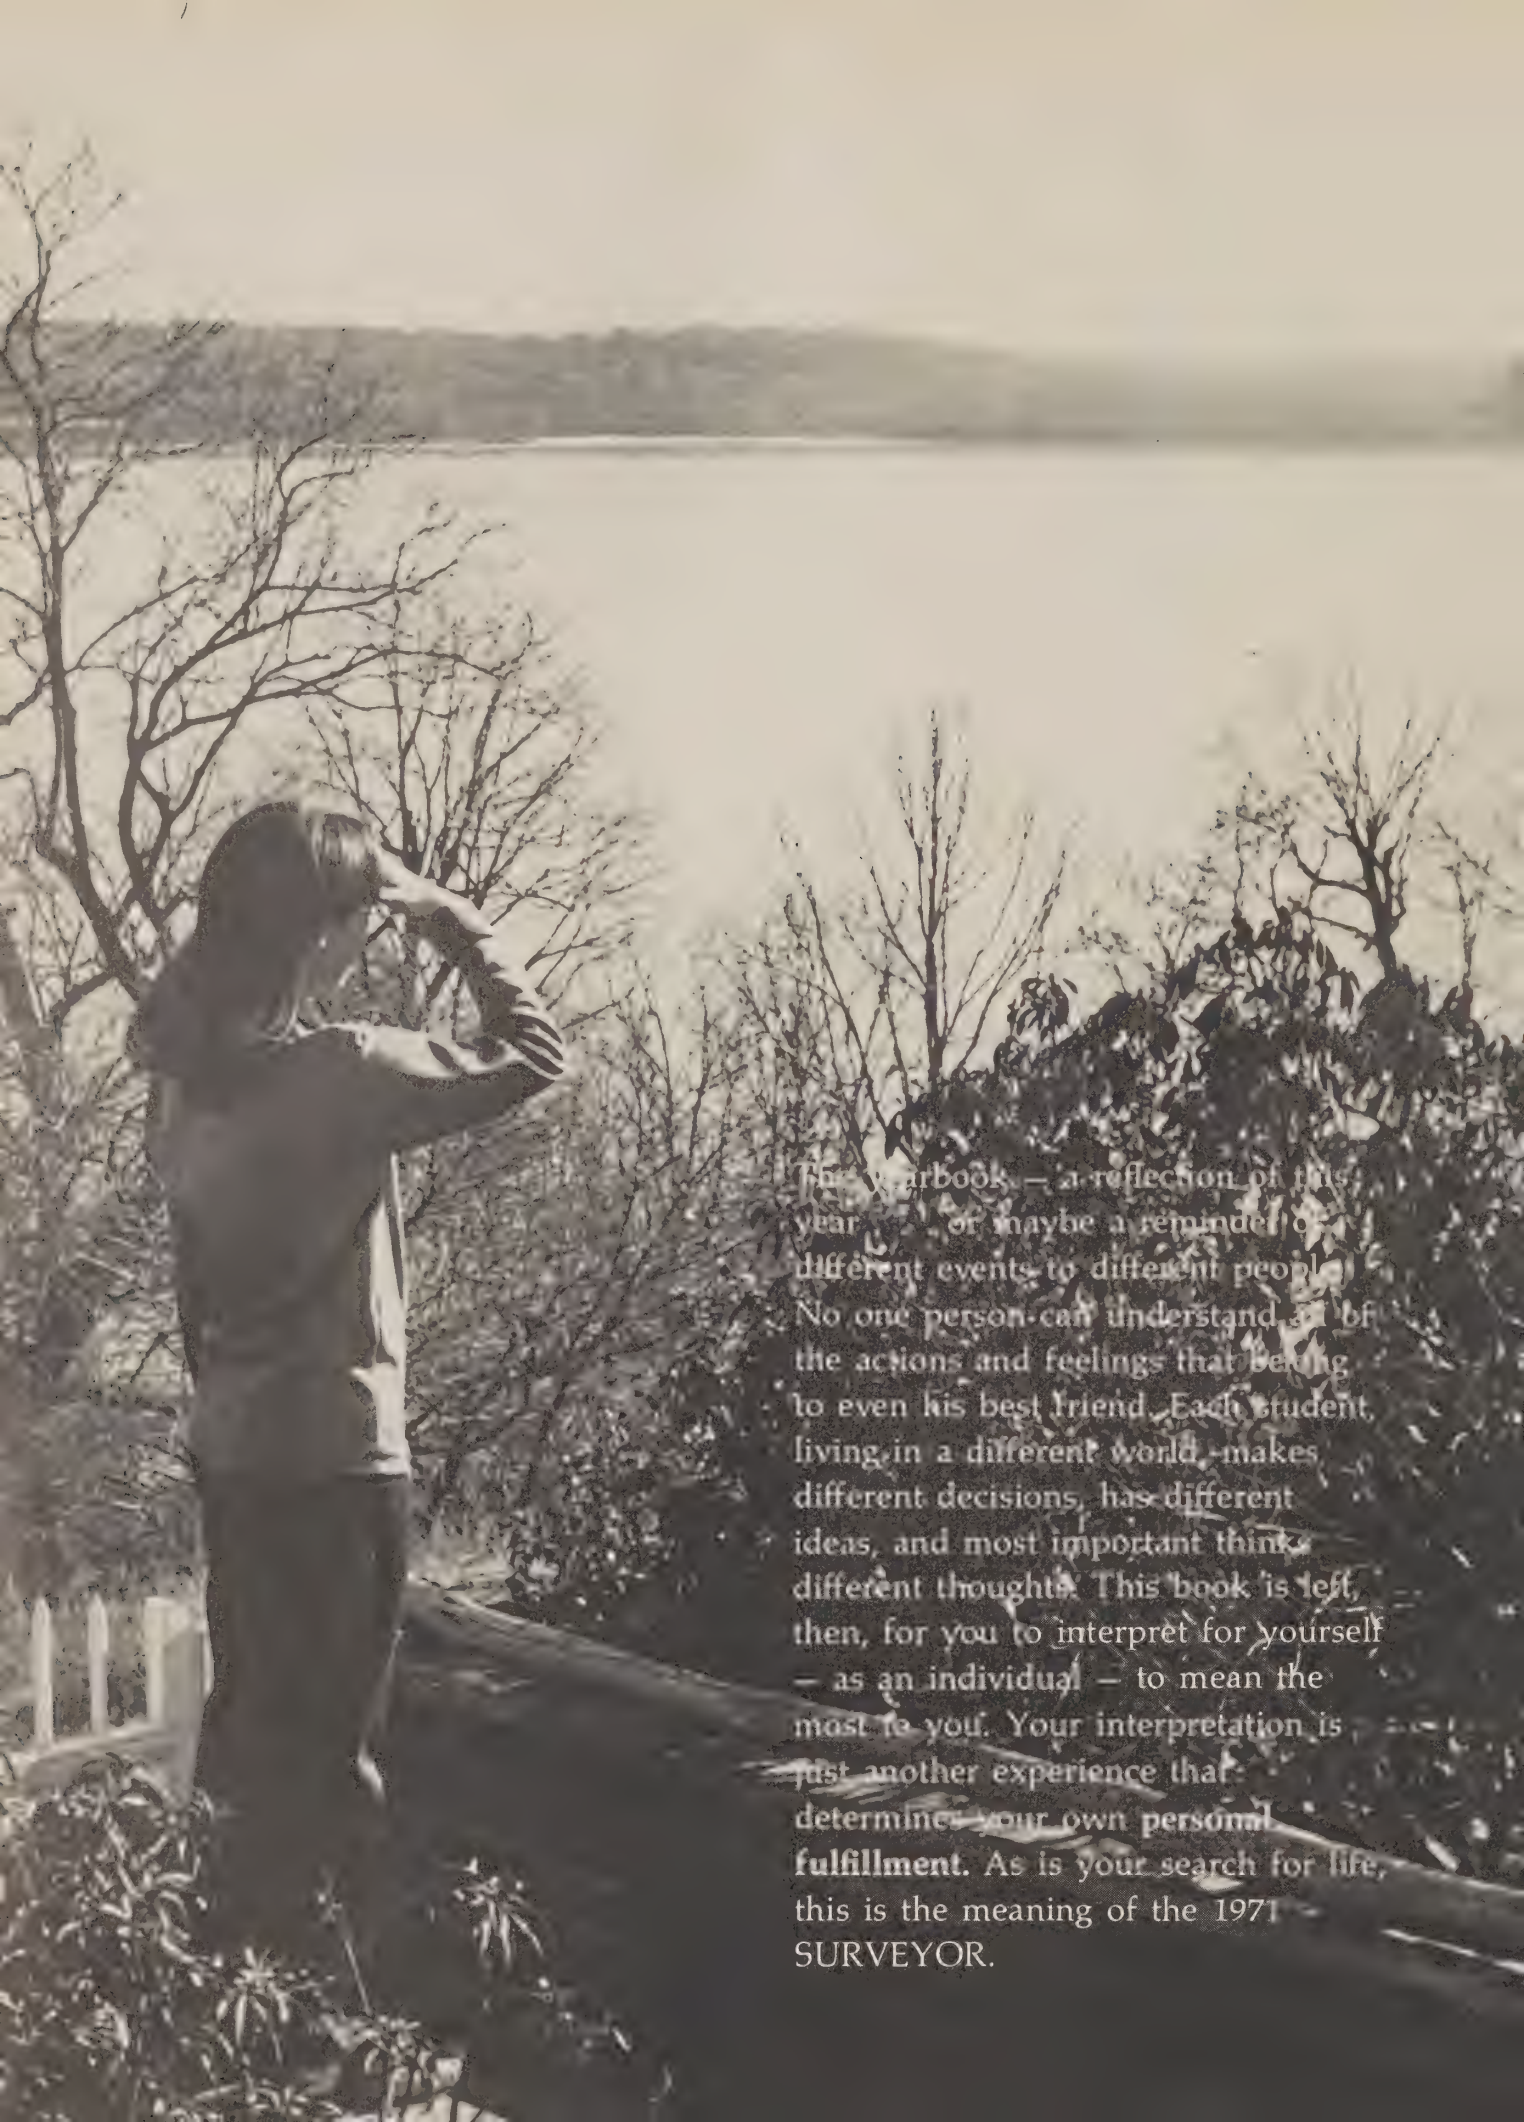
American Yearbook Company and Mr. Neill Watson for their guidance and understanding assistance.

Bob King and David Olson for working many late hours in the dark room to develop pictures to meet the deadlines.

Mr. Herman Thomason, our dedicated advisor, for his knowledge and for his previous years of heading the yearbook staff, thus giving us his invaluable experience in compiling this book.

The faculty and administration, particularly Mr. Landes, for bearing with us during repeated class interruptions, and the office staff for their readily offered assistance.

The parents of the editors for their unflinching tolerance and patient acceptance of all the late hours, tempermental moods, and yearbook clutter during those frenzied hours of pre-deadline rush.



This yearbook — a reflection of this year — or maybe a reminder of different events to different people. No one person can understand all of the actions and feelings that belong to even his best friend. Each student, living in a different world, makes different decisions, has different ideas, and most important think different thoughts. This book is left, then, for you to interpret for yourself — as an individual — to mean the most to you. Your interpretation is just another experience that determines your own personal fulfillment. As is your search for life, this is the meaning of the 1971 SURVEYOR.
